

London's environmental college

Capel Manor
College

Our natural world

Our natural world is constantly changing but right now more than ever, it needs passionate people to help tackle some of the challenges it faces in light of climate change, sustainability and food security.

The College plays an important role in the capital's green agenda, equipping students with the skills needed to help preserve and protect our wildlife, parks and green spaces in and around London but also across the world.

College

London-wide presence

We have five campuses across London and 3,500 students. Whilst we are large, we still have a close-knit, community feel at each of our campuses.

We provide hands-on experience learning outdoors, with over 40 acres of gardens and open landscapes across our campuses, zoos, gardens and farms.
